holy, Holy, The Holy One: The human journey to Wholeness

*This year in his film series, theologian, film scholar, and Associate Pastor of St. Monica's Parish, Fr. Lloyd Baugh, S.J. looks at films that consider how God, The Holy One, YHWH and the deities of Buddhism, invite their believers to risk undertaking the wonderful and mysterious journey towards the holiness which is wholeness.*

My Father, My Lord

Directed by: David Volach
Israel, 2007- Hebrew with English subtitles

Avraham Eidelmann, an old ultra-orthodox rabbi, has a young wife, Esther, and a young son, Menahem. He spends all his time praying and studying the Torah, and has little time to devote to Esther nor to Menahem, who is awakening to life. But today Menahem is happy. His father has accepted to go to the Dead Sea for their holidays. Once on vacation, adherence to the strictures of Torah do not end. Avraham herds the men out of the water for mid-day prayers. Always taking the longest to pray, he does not notice that Menachem, who slipped off earlier to catch more fish in an estuary, ran into the sea despite his not knowing how to swim. By the time he finishes his prayers properly, for Avraham, for Esther and for Menachem, it's too late.
